

We hope you join us for some of these activities! Please read through each description to see if its right for you! Times listed are best estimates but may change depending upon participants' time at each venue. But be sure to keep an eye on the time for you or others to make it to the next activity! Feel free to check out the spreadsheet to make sure you can make it to all your adventures!

After each activity at Camp McLanlin, participants will be shuttled to the Straiton Hall parking lot to meet their group for an activity out in the community and vice versa.

We are asking for volunteer drivers – if selected as a driver for your activity, you will be given a list of everyone you are to have in your vehicle, times, and addresses, etc. You may choose to donate your travel mileage, or you may fill out an expense form and turn it in Saturday evening. (For faster payment, make sure you have direct deposit set up with Girl Guides of Canada.) Thank you! (Please note: if you decide to drive yourself, there will not be any mileage payment given.)

If your session at Camp McLanlin either finishes immediately before lunch or starts immediately after lunch, there will be an option for you to make a lunch at Marion's Manor.

SARDIS PARK

This 5-hectare (12.28 acre) park (a former gravel pit) has been part of Chilliwack's park inventory since 1971. The 655-metre outer looping trail allows the visitors to take in the wonderful views and vistas as they participate in outdoor activities.

The western painted turtle (Chrysemys picta bellii) is found in the Lower Fraser Valley, which includes Chilliwack. The Pacific Coast population, which is considered "Endangered", can be found in areas like the Vedder River, Cheam Lake Wetlands, and Sardis Park in Chilliwack. The easy stroll around the lake you should see many of the turtles basking in the sunshine if it is nice out.

Sips and Scenery: A Libation Tour Through the Fraser Valley

Nestled between the Coast Mountains and the Fraser River, the Fraser Valley is a haven for lovers of handcrafted drinks and pastoral charm. A libation tour through this lush region offers a perfect blend of rustic beauty, artisanal flavors, and local hospitality. Each person is responsible for purchasing their own libations at each stop. Tastings/flights MAY be taken off if a purchase of product is made. Inquire at each stop.

First Pour: Fraser Valley Cidery

Begin your journey where crisp air and orchard views set the tone. Known for its small-batch, handcrafted ciders made from locally grown apples, this cidery offers a tasting experience that's both refreshing and educational. Whether you prefer dry, tart, or sweet, the variety of flavors—from classic apple to seasonal blends—will awaken your palate. Food is also available for purchase

Berry Bliss: Krause Berry Farm

Next, head to Krause Berry Farm where you'll sip on fruit-forward wines made from berries grown on-site, including raspberry, blueberry, and strawberry varietals. The farm's Wine Tasting Room is a cozy spot to sample their award-winning pours, and don't miss the fresh-baked berry pies or the famous waffle bar for a sweet interlude.

Final Toast: Roots and Wings Distillery

Cap off your tour at Roots and Wings Distillery, Langley's first craft distillery. This family-run gem produces small-batch vodka, gin, and whiskey using ingredients grown right on their farm. The tasting room offers a warm welcome and a chance to try inventive cocktails made with their artisan spirits. The distillery's name reflects its philosophy: rooted in tradition, with a bold spirit of innovation. Food also available for purchase

Tips for the Trail

- Designated driver will be provided.
- Food and Drinks are at your own expense
- Pack light: Leave room for bottles, jams, and baked goods you'll want to take home.

A Toast to the Valley

This libation tour through the Fraser Valley is more than a tasting—it's a celebration of local craftsmanship, community, and the natural bounty of British Columbia. Whether you're a cider enthusiast, berry wine lover, or spirit connoisseur, each stop offers a unique flavor of the Valley's charm.
